

Sophie takes care of everything,
as it is Daddy's turn to enjoy a well-deserved break.

Synopsis

Sophie is going to spend the weekend with her dad. She is determined to take care of all the tasks so that he can get a good sleep. From his hammock, Dad worries about Sophie as she does the work and problems multiply: the rubbish bags are too heavy, the bird feeder is too high, Sophie can't turn off the hose... Fortunately, a picnic awaits them.

About the creators

Nicole Poirier is originally from Chéticamp, Nova Scotia. Her writing is based on her experiences as a kindergarten teacher and her work in educational support services. She also created the character of Nico, who tells stories and hosts gatherings with children. Congé pour papa is her fourth book published by Bouton d'or Acadie.

Originally from Dieppe, New Brunswick, Isabelle Léger is passionate about illustration. A graphic designer and illustrator, she has been creating illustrations for children's books for several years, including Congé pour maman in 2018, Samuel et la tuque de Noël in 2019, Un monstre dans ma cuisine (which was selected finalist for the Prix Champlain) in 2020, and Congé pour Sophie in 2021.
